

A MIDWEST CONNECTIONS PICK

BY GAIL GIBBONS

PB: 978-0-8234-2245-6 • $6.95

Popcorn, corn on the cob, corn dogs, cornflakes ... corn is a favorite food for most people. But it is used for many other things as well! Paper, glue, medicine, plastic, soap—corn is everywhere!

Nonfiction favorite Gail Gibbons sinks her teeth into Corn! She offers a cornucopia of information in her typical bright, easy style—the history of corn, the different types, its cultivation, and much, much more. Entertaining and educational for children and adults!

“Gibbons has created another competent and useful introduction to a familiar product.”—Booklist

“The colorful watercolors are sure to attract the attention of even the most reluctant readers. . . . A simple, yet informative and engaging look at an important food source.”—School Library Journal
