"DiCamillo's story, told with a single word, is one even youngest readers can understand. Everyone wants to be seen, and everyone wants someone to sing back to them." —Publishers Weekly (starred review)

Midwest Connections Pick
"This book could not be cuter or more clever. Annie Silvestro . . . is a lyrical writer who knows exactly what kind of creative detail will spark a reader's imagination — a little mouse makes ice skates out of pine needles! Teagan White's illustrations are warm and comforting, and push the cuteness factor into overdrive. A winner of a winter's tale." —USA Today

"Fuller's keen sense of engagement with a land 'to which you now don't belong,' and her place as an outsider, make her a sympathetic storyteller. Her prose shimmers and vibrates with life in this excellent novel." – Publishers Weekly

An "unmistakably contemporary novel. This is the future that our conservative forebears were scared of, in all its messy, hopeful glory." – J. Ryan Stradal, New York Times bestselling author of Kitchens of the Great Midwest
